I'm baaaaaaaack!
And I am happy as can be!

It was a great trip and I saw some great old friends and met many new ones... but I am really happy to be back home in Mexico!

I partook in 3 jam sessions and got out to see two performances by old friends' groups. I met with 3 guys I had played with years ago who have all now retired... one is in pretty bad shape after a stroke a few months back but we had a nice visit... he is in extensive care now but thinking and speaking clearly.

I also had a breakfast get together with my Santa Claus agent... a very important guy for me for a great 10 year run up in Edmonton at the best (not largest) shopping centre.

My main purpose was to spend some time with my sister Judi who has been down here a few times but has had a couple of strokes that have made her health insurance prohibitive... what a great time we had together!

Got back so I could attend an event out at La Huerta Saturday... it was to start at 7 PM so we got there at 6:30 to get a good parking spot... I was a bit surprised just how good it was!

7 PM came and went and very few people and no musicians... there was no food available and no wine (for my wife) on the very short drink menu... just tequila, beer, refrescos and agua! When 8 o'clock came and passed, we left. I have not heard what transpired later. We went to La Bodega, had a nice dinner and caught some good tunes from Ricardo and Blanca.

True, honest unsentimental acting of this caliber is usually only encountered in New York, LA or Toronto but here in a role that reveals his true abilities as a performer we have Roger Larson creating a character and performance for us that goes beyond and into the world of the consummate professional.

We could have been in New York at a fabulous $200 dollar a night off Broadway theatre. That is how it felt at the Bravo theatre.
